Attention:

In 2005, the Montana legislature passed the Clean Indoor Air Act (CIAA), one of the most important public health policies in state history. Laws like the CIAA reduce heart attack rates by at least 20 percent. They also reduce lung disease, including lung cancer, as well as other debilitating and fatal illnesses, and they protect unborn children and young children from health problems.

Montana law requires all enclosed public places and workplaces to be smoke-free and it requires businesses to prominently place smoke-free signs on all public entrances.

Please visit <http://dphhs.mt.gov/publichealth/mtupp.aspx> to order
FREE REQUIRED SIGNAGE.

For more information, please contact the Gallatin County CIAA Coordinator by calling (406)582-3100.
